This pretty Morgan County lass, Miss Rose Burchett, pauses from her farm chores to display an old fashioned oak basket made by her uncle, Linzie Burchett of Relief. Mr. Burchett plans to display and sell baskets like this "more than a bushel" size and others of various sizs and shapes at the Dogwood Festival here May 7-8. During the festival, expected to draw one of the largest crowds ever to visit West Liberty, Mr. Burchett will demonstrate the basketmaking are he learned from his father, the late Grover Burchett of Relief. Mr. Burchett, a carpenter by trade, says basketmaking is a winter hobby and he gathers the "basket oak" from the woods himself. During the two-day festival, visitors will have the opportunity to view and buy hundreds of beautiful and authentic handmade crafts which will be displayed by local artists. In addition, many other activities are planned, including a high school band fesival, a rock band concert for teen-agers, knife swapping, and a sidewalk sale of original art works by some of Kentucky's leading professional artists. And everybody everywhere is invited.

KENTUCKY POWER TO BUILD OFFICE IN WEST LIBERTY

Kentucky Power Company will build an office building in West Liberty on Prestonsburg Street, the second block on the north side.

The building site is situated adjacent to Ken's Market and directly across the street from May Wholesale Co.

J. M. Wood, Pikeville division manager of the company, made the announcement Monday and said construction is expected to get under way this year. The building will measure about 42 feet by 60 feet.

Cost of the project is estimated at about $140,000.

Mr. Wood noted that the growth of West Liberty as a hopping and trade center, with its corresponding recent industrial development and commercial activity, led to Kentucky Power's decision to establish an office in West Liberty. "This building with its drive-in window will provide our customers in the area with much greater convenience and accessibility," Mr. Wood said.

He pointed out that the building will feature a conference-type meeting room which will be available for public meetings of a civic nature. "The new office also will provide us with space to display modern electric appliances and electric heating equipment," he said. An electric heat pump will provide heating and cooling for year around comfort conditioning.

The company's service vehicles will be provided with supplies and equipment in the storage area in the back of the building.

Architect for the building is Norman Chrisman, Jr. of the firm of Chrisman, Miller and Wallace, Lexington architects.

The first stage of a community-wide cleanup drive was completed in West Liberty Sunday and the second stage will be conducted next Sunday. Leaders of the drive reported that only about 10 percent of the volunteers who were expected to turn out did so, but said considerable progress was made in some areas of town. The West Liberty drive is the first part of a county-wide cleanup program being planned by local civic and school groups. Among those who gave up their leisure time Sunday afternoon to help with the cleanup were, from left, Stanley Franklin, Kenneth Turner, Dr. Alec Spencer, Gary Elam, Walter Franklin, and Ed Gevedon. Areas not covered by volunteers last Sunday will be cleaned next Sunday.

AREA OFFICIALS LAUD OEO'S HELP BEFORE PANEL IN WASHINGTON

County Judge Eugene Allen told a House committee in Washington Tuesday that the federal poverty program enables Morgan County to maintain its road system.

Judge Allen said that enrollees in Operation Mainstream, a work and training program, work much of the time repairing roads.

"Without the OEO boys, we'd be in bad shape in Morgan County as far as the road system is concerned," Allen said at a hearing of the House Education and Labor Committee. It is considering the future of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) and the poverty program. The committee chairman is Carl D. Perkins, Kentucky Democrat.

Allen said the Mainstream participants learn to drive trucks and operate road-building equipment, and most move on to jobs with private business.

Allen said the county could use more job training funds. He said there are 3,000 to 4,000 unemployed persons in Morgan County, which has a population of about 10,000.

Another Kentucky witness, James L. Redwine of Sandy Hook, also praised the Mainstream program. Now an investigator for the Department of Labor, Redwine formerly worked as a counselor to Mainstream enrollees in seven East Kentucky counties.

He said Mainstream workers had built a park in Sandy Hook and had repaired delapidated houses.

Menifee County Judge Otto Ingram also testified before the committee that his county can't afford to pay in cash part of the cost of running the federally subsidized poverty program. The Nixon administration has proposed that local share of program costs be increased to 25 percent and that three-fifths be in cash.

CHILI SUPPER IS CANCELLED

The chili supper to raise money for the Rex Lacy Medical Fund, previously scheduled for April 27, has been cancelled. Mr. Lacy, a cancer patient whose survival depended on weekly doses of an expensive life-sustaining medication, died Friday in Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington.

The advisory board and the executive board of the Rex Lacy Medical Fund at a meeting this week authorized fund treasurer. H. D. Potter, to pay off the family's outstanding medical bills. Any money left in the fund will be turned over to Mr. Lacy's family.

Persons who have bought tickets for the chili supper who object to their money being used in this manner may get a refund by notifying Mr. Potter.

The advisory board and the executive committee would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who has contributed to this worthy cause.

The Morgan County ASCS committee has scheduled two of a series of rural meetings to explain details of the proposed new poundage burley control program.

First meeting will be held Friday in the Dingus Community. The meeting is to be held in the White Oak Branch School, starting at 6 p.m.

The second meeting is scheduled for the Cannel City Community, but the date had not been finalized at press time.

Voting will be held at the regular county polling places, and will be supervised by the various community committees.

Ranier Discusses Strip Mine Plan

21-Mile Haul To Lee Clay's Plant, Then On To C & O

Harry B. Ranier's company that is operating in Morgan preparatory to mining coal on several thousand acres in the northern section of the county and in southern Elliott, is named Triple Elkhorn Mining Co. instead of East Kentucky Costruction and Mining Company, as this paper stated last week. Also, the operation is being developed entirely by Ranier's company without any help from Consolidation Coal Co., Mr. Ranier told this newspaper Monday.

Mr. Ranier, who heads four coal mining companies, was here from Prestonsburg Monday to meet with Roy H. Cassity, president of the Morehead and North Fork Railway of Morehead; Eldon Evans, timberman and banker of Morehead, and Crate Rice and James Trimble, coal and oil prospectors and developers from Paintsville.

Ranier said his company has acquired leases or options on approximately 50,000 acres of coal land in northern Morgan and southern Elliott, as stated by this newspaper last week. But he said the operation would be a small one for a while.

"We are prospecting and locating now. We want to run some test coal right now; we are looking at possibly 10,000 acres we may develop. It could develop into a big operation, and we hope so," he said.

Mr. Ranier said he had organized the East Kentucky Construction and Mining Co. a few weeks ago, as stated by this paper. "But that company is my operating company on another job," he explained. He also said that he was mining some land for Consolidation Coal, on a sub-lease, and then selling the coal to Consolidation. "But this job in Morgan is mine, and Consolidation is not helping," he said.

Ranier's company has massive power equipment at work rbuilding the road from Craney up North Fork to Redwine, and building a road up the hill southeast of Redwine to get onto the long ridges that extend eastward several miles along the divide between Wells Creek and Middle Fork of Little Sandy River and Big Mandy, the three forks of Straight Creek, and Laurel, tributaries of the Elk Fork of Licking.

It is this area between Redwine and Crockett that contains most of Ranier's 50,000 acres. And the area has three seams of coal—two of 48 to 52 in. down on the hill, and a thicker seam, possibly 9 to 10 feet thick, underneath the top of Granddaddy Knob and along ridges in that area that have elevations above 1,050 feet.

Ranier plans to haul the stripped coal via Redwine down North Fork to the Rowan line and thence up the Lick Fork road in Rowan to the top of Clack Mountain. By building a three-mile sector from Leisure to Craney and making use of CANCER FUND DRIVE STARTS IN MORGAN CO.

Mrs. H. B. Murray and Mrs. Walter Franklin, who are heading this year's Morgan County Cancer Fund drive, Wednesday issued an appeal to all Morgan Countians to contribute generously when the cancer drive volunteer knocks.

Forty-seven volunteers in various communities throughout the county will begin solicitations this week, according to Mrs. Murray.

The urgent need for funds to conduct cancer research was underscored by Mrs. Franklin, who pointed out that more Americans died of cancer in 1969 than were killed in the four years of World War II.

Of the 200 million Americans alive today, 50 million will develop cancer. Approximately 3½ million will die of it.

Cancer claims the lives of more children under 15 years of age than any other disease.

MIZE SPEAKS FOR FORD IN MORGAN

C. E. Mize, a party leader from the Fifth District, substituted for Floyd county dentist Dr. Joe Hyden in bringing a major campaign speech for Lieut. Gov. Wendell Ford in Morgan County last Saturday.

A crowd of nearly 50 attended the speaking in the Morgan county circuit courtroom.

Mize, said that Former Gov. Bert Combs had put more taxes on the people of Kentucky than any governor in 165 years. Lieut. Gov. Ford is competing with Combs for the Democratic nomination for governor.

He said Ford has been a "working lieutenant governor, not a destructionist," and claimed he could revitalize the party.

He predicted Ford would win the nomination by a good majority, upwards of 30,000 votes.

The announcement of the appointment was made this week by Combs-Carroll State Campaign Chairman Robert Matthews. Whitaker will be joined by a group of other men who will aid in the campaign.

In accepting the appointment, Whitaker said, "There are many problems facing Kentucky farmers during the coming years. They have records of performance and accomplishment for the people of this state and they can best provide the direction and the solutions to our most pressing problems."

DR. HOLBROOK SEEKING TERM AS MAGISTRATE

To the voters of Wards 1, 2, and 4—

Upon the death of your elected magistrate, Jim Crowe Turner, I was appointed to hold that office until the next election. At the election last May, no one chose to run for the office, so I automatically stayed in the position another year. This year, someone else is seeking the position to finish the 2 years remaining in Mr. Turner's term.

Therefore, I am doing something I've never done before, I'm placing my name on a ballot to run for an elected position. I am dong this for oniy one reason — I am very interested in seeing our county grow and get some of the things other counties seem to have. And I promise you that I will do everything within my power as a magistrate to help Morgan County.

Your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated.

His condition Tuesday was reported as much improved and a family spokesman said doctors report that he is recovering normally.

Wingo and his older brother, Cleve, driver of the truck, were hauling aluminum gates when the accident occurred. The injured youth was riding in the back of the truck to steady the load when he apparently lost his footing and tumbled to the highway.

STATEMENT BY RAY O. BROWN CANDIDATE FOR STATE REP.

RAY O. BROWN

I am taking this opportunity to state a few additional points that I think would be of interest to the people of the71st Legislative District.

I will fight for any roads that will pull our counties closer together and to link all our people closer by having improved highways connecting I-64 and the Mountain Parkway.

As we have a state university in our district I will support its continued growth to the best of my ability. And by no means will I neglect our elementary and secondary schools.

I will also support legislation to exempt our social security recipients and those living on veterans disability from the sales tax on food and clothing. I am also of the opinion that since so many of our men must leave Kentucky for employment, it is unfair for them to pay state income taxes in that state and still pay it in ours.

I hope to see each of you personally before May 25 and I will appreciate your support in these endeavors.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Statement of Senator John Sherman Cooper

Dear Mr. Kinner:

I am very glad the President has signed into law the burley poundage bill passed by the Congress last week. I believe the change to poundage controls will save the burley price support program for farmers in future years, is fair to all farmers, and will protect the agriculture economy of the areas which depend upon burley production.

There will now be a referendum on Tuesday, May 4, to determine whether farmers will have a burley program, with price supports and poundage controls, for the next three years. Unless two-thirds of those voting favor the program, there will be no price support, and no limitation on burley production.

This referendum will be no different from those held every three years in the past — that is, a choice between a burley price support program and no program — except that the law has now been changed so that each farm will receive a poundage quota instead of an acreage allotment.

I support and will speak in Kentucky for the burley tobacco program which I have worked to protect and defend during my entire service in the Senate — and I hope very much that it will continue to have the full support of all farmers in all burley producing areas, just as it has in the past.

I want to emphasize I think the poundage program is fair to all the farmers — whatever their size operation — and it is the only way I see that 90 percent price support and our burley program can be maintained.

John Sherman Cooper

the old railroad bridge across Craney, distance from Redwine to Clack Mountain can be reduced to 21 miles.

Trucks are to be unloaded at the top of Clack Mountain into a conveyor there and the coal run through the crusher formerly used by Lee Clay Products Co. at the foot of the mountain, then loaded on railroad cars to be hauled the four miles over Morehead and North Fork's rails to the C & O Railway.

The Morehead and North Fork still owns two diesel switch engines and rail line running the four miles to the C & O.

Ranier, it is understood, has acquired the conveyor, crusher and loading facility of Lee Clay and has contracted with the 4-mile railroad to shift the cars to the C & O railroad near Clearfield.

Ranier's firm has requested freight tariff rates via C & O from Clearfield for 30 gondolas a day. And it was learned this week that he had requested tariffs be figured also for 40 gondolas a day from Clearfield. Gondolas have capacities of 60 and 100 tons each.

1. The abolition of strip mining in areas where land reclamation is impossible, such as on the steep slopes of Eastern Kentucky.

2. The levying of an adequate severance tax on minerals mined in this state.

Hazard Community College is on route 15, just South of town. People from all counties are invited who are interested in these issues, and who might be willing to form a group of SOK in their own county. "Bring a sack lunch and some friends."

Water Level Agreement Paves Way For Start On Red River Dam In 1972

Dam To Be Built On Site Favored By Conservationists

BY RICHARD WILSON
Louisville Courier-Journal

FRANKFORT, Ky. — An agreement reached here last week between the State and the Army Corps of Engineers has paved the way for the start of construction next year of the controversial dam on the Red River in Powell County at the site favored by conservationists.

The final question surrounding planning of the dam had been the water level of the dam's reservoir. The question was resolved on a compromise basis under Wednesday's agreement, which sets the reservoir's seasonal level at 703 feet above mean sea level, and its flood-control level at 759 feet.

The dam will be located on the North Fork of the Red River, about a mile and a half above the junction of the river's North Fork with the Middle Fork. This is about a mile northeast of the Mountain Parkway.

The site is 5.2 miles downstream from a site chosen earlier by the Corps of Engineers. The original dam site was dropped after conservationists protested it would flood parts of the Red River gorge in Powell, Menifee and Wolfe counties and would damage the area's natural beauty and wildlife.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn, who finally sided with the conservationists and whose influence, along with that of U. S. Senator John Sherman Cooper, was instrumental in provoking the site change, said that the new site "will effectively protect the unique environmental features, save the most attractive and scenic areas, provide needed flood protection, and meet the water supply needs for Kentucky's Bluegrass area for decades to come."

Construction of the dam is expected to be finished in 1975 or 1976. It will cost about $3.5 million above the estimated $11.1 million for the original upstream site, or about $14.6 million.

The new dam and reservoir will cover an estimated 3,180 acres, compared with about 2,900 acres that would have been covered by using the original upstream site. W. E. Leegan, acting chief of the Corps of Engineers planning division, said land already acquired for the previous site will still be used for the new location.

Under the agreement, the reservoir's seasonal water level will be 54 feet lower than the 757-foot figure that had been contained in the engineers' original proposal for the upstream site, and its flood-control level will be 45 feet lower than the 804 feet proposed for the upstream site.

The compromise concerned the seasonal water level at the downstream site.

HAD DISAGREED AT HEARING

Conservationists and Corps officials had disagreed over a proposed sustained water-level range from 700 to 710 feet at a Louisville hearing a year ago.

At that time the engineers were favoring the 710-foot level to guarantee an adequate water supply to Lexington, Mount Sterling and other cities. They then indicated that the 700-foot mark, favored by the conservationists, would provide only 65 per cent of the water those cities are expected to need by the year 2000. The 703-foot level was a workable compromise between the two positions.

To determine the most suitable level, from the environmental, water-supply and control standpoints, the Corps contracted with Research Planning & Design Associates, Inc., of Amherst, Mass. The firm of ecological consultants conducted a four-month study of the area to determine the best pool level.

Dr. Carl A. Carlozzi, a member of the firm and a professor of research planning at the University of Massachusetts told the nearly 50 officials at the Frankfort session that area ecological conditions were the study's major concern. One factor in setting the lower water-level standard, he said, was a rare stand of sycamore, cottonwood and beech trees that would be very close to pool level if it were as high as 710 feet.

Col. John Rhett, director of the Corps' Ohio Basin District, said a public hearing on the proposal will be held in the area this summer before any construction or land acquisition begins.

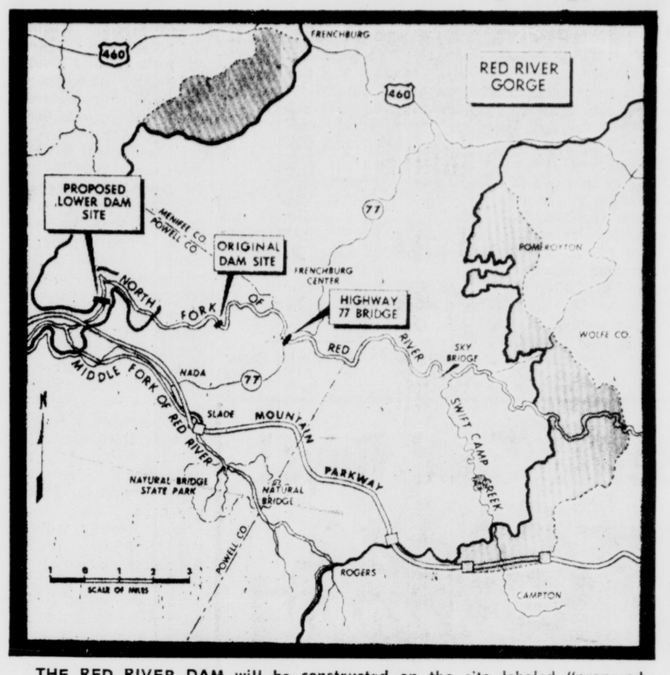

He said that the new site, which had been previously announced but not pinpointed, maintains the best possible balance between preservation of the area's ecological assets and the flood control and future water needs of Central Kentucky communities.

Rhett also said the 703-foot level would not require relocation of KY 715, which runs through the gorge area. However, he said about 800 yards of the highway would have to be elevated in some places to clear the sustained pool.

Col. Rhett later said the report written by Carlozzi's firm indicated that some forms of fish such as darters might be lost under the proposal, but he added that the report stated the species would probably move further upstream. He said the report also indicated that wildlife displaced by the pool would probably relocate in the gorge area and not disappear altogether.

As for the future water supplies, Rhett said the new location would provide 85 per cent of the quantity specified by the original site. But he added that this figure should still guarantee adequate supplies through the year 2000 and beyond.

He also said an area ecological program would be created by the Corps of Engineers that would later be turned over to the U. S. Forest Service to operate.

THE RED RIVER DAM will be constructed on the site labeled "proposed lower dam site" on the map above. It is on the river's North Fork, about a mile and a half above the confluence of the North and Middle forks, and 5.2 miles downstream from the original dam site proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers.

STATE 2nd IN COAL — Kentucky coal production reached 125 million tons last year, with augur and strip mining showing the biggest gain, says the Department of Mines and Minerals. Kentucky was just 15 million tons behind West Virginia, the nation's top producer. Augur mining increased by 95% last year and strip mining nearly as much.

Since the first Heart Fund Campaign was conducted nationally in 1949, there has been a decline of about 20 percent in the death rate from heart and blood vessel diseases applying to persons below age 65.

STATE AGRICULTURE COMMISSIONER URGES VOTE FOR POUNDAGE PLAN

BY J. ROBERT MILLER
Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture

May 4 is an important date for Kentucky's burley growers, as well as those throughout the burley belt. On this date they will vote in a referendum to determine whether to accept the recently proposed poundage controls for burley —or reject the proposal and the price support program.

If the proposal is rejected, growers will be without a price support program. This means that we will be operating without any type of program.

Due to the continued increase in pounds per acre, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has declared that the present acreage system is not keeping production in line with disappearance. During past decades, the acreage system has worked real well, and only developed problems when farmers rushed for greater yield per acre.

Each grower will be given full information on what the poundage proposal is prior to May 4. In addition, they will know what their poundage quota will be for their farm.

The 1971 quotas for each burley grower will be computed by taking the average of the four highest yields per acre for the last five years and multiplying that yield by the 1970 burley acreage allotment for the farm. This quota cannot be reduced by more than five percent this year.

Relief for minimum acreage growers is provided under the poundage proposal, in that in 1972 and '73, their quota cut can be no more than two and one-half percent. It is possible that a cut will not be necessary every year.

The important thing for all growers to keep in mind is that by adopting the poundage system, we can retain price supports—and controls on total production. Any farmer who grew tobacco prior to the price support program need not be told what it is like to sell tobacco for a few cents per pound. With a poundage system, each grower is assured of his fair share of the market.

In other words, tobacco has come to be our major cash crop because of the good prices we have been receiving. Take away the protection of price supports and it is hard to tell just what we will have left.

The Kentucky State Board of Agriculture urges the adoption of the poundage system for burley, because it is the route toward security for all growers—small and large alike. We must act to insure that the crop that put $1,377,132,690 into our economy during the past five years will not be lost to open production and no price supports.

FOREST FIRES IN SEVERAL PLACES

Morgan county's Forest Service fire crews have been busy night and day the past week fighting a series of forest fires that hit the eastern and northern parts of the county.

The crews have fought eight fires during the past week, and crews from Menifee, Bath, Rowan and Elliott were called in to help on two of them, Marion Rowland, county fire warden, said Wednesday.

Crews from the neighboring counties helped put out fires Monday at Redwine and Laurel Fork.

Meanwhile, local crews were fighting fires at several places in the county. One hit on the farm of Kenneth Jones near Cannel City Monday, and was brought under control in a few hours.

On the same day a fire burned over about 60 acres of woodland on the farm of Ralph Hamilton on Stingy Fork of Coffee Creek before it was brought under control.

On Tuesday local crews fought fires on Deadnin' Branch near Crockett and around the microwave tower in the edge of Magoffin county.

On Wednesday the crews went to the Lost Creek and Upper Sand Lick sections to fight fires that had burned for sometime.

Rowland said his crews had fought 30 forest fires this spring in Morgan, and that about 2,000 acres had been burned over. He said "some of the fires are bound to have been set purposly", but did not elaborate. A drizzling rain that fell Wednesday may help stop the series of forest fires, he said.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR CITES STRIP MINE START

I once lived and worked in West Liberty and Morgan County is like home to me, a county and people I love. This Ranier Construction Co. will destroy the mountains of Morgan County and leave it a wasteland. Morgan Countians should be warned about what will happen at once and form a branch of S.O.K. (Save Our Kentucky). It's urgent.

S.O.K. is composed of people from all over the state interested in the abolition of strip mining in areas where land reclamation is impossible, such as on the steep slopes of Eastern Kentucky, and the levying of an adequate severance tax on minerals mined in Kentucky.

Buck Auxier, 41, Middle Fork, and Doug Patrick, 19, who lives on the Breathitt-Magoffin line, made their escape about 6:50 a.m. Kentucky State Police said.

Monitor Making Location For Another Morgan Well

To Drill A Mile Southwest of Its New Moon Producer

Monitor Petroleum Corp., after finishing its deep-test well on Doc Ison Creek near Moon, made location Tuesday for another deep well in Morgan, this one a mile southwest of the big producer drilled in a few weeks ago seven-eights of a mile north of Moon.

The new location is on the farm of Steve Lewis on Fyffe branch which is between Doc Ison Creek and pasture's Branch. The location is about 250 yards off Ky. Highway 172 the Elkfork-Paint Creek road.

Bink Strickland, Monitor's division manager, said they would use a rotary rig and drill to the Tomstown formation, which is a little more than 5,000 feet deep in that section, and maybe would drill even deeper.

The Moon well was drilled to the granite at a depth of 10,016 feet, and is producing gas and oil from two pays. Gas was struck in the basal sands after fracturing. Later, Halliburton Company crews fractured the Knox at 5,000 feet, and after acidizing the fracture, oil commenced flowing about 10 barrels per hour and with considerable force, propelled by a good flow of gas under high rock pressure.

Tubing was run last Wednesday and the oil flow filled several 220 barrel tanks brought in by Ashland Oil.

Then on Monday and Tuesday of this week, a separator tank was installed to seperate the gas from the oil, and the well was shut in to await arrival of a pump being brought in from Texas.

Strickland said the well should be on pump by early next week. He has termed the well a "mighty good producer, possibly 250 barrels a day, and maybe even bigger." Final tests are to be made next week.

The new location on Steve Lewis' farm will be Monitor's third test in this area since coming to Kentucky. Last year Monitor drilled a 9,670 foot well at Stevens in eastern Elliott county and received flows of both oil and gas. Their second well was the Moon well drilled on the Fred Ison farm on Doc Ison Creek in eastern Morgan, about 15 miles south of the Elliott county well. Both wells were drilled on a farm-out agreement with Ashland Oil, Pennzoil and Sun.

Since coming to Kentucky, Monitor has picked up several thousand acres of leases in four counties—Elliott, Morgan, Lawrence and Johnson, and Strickland says his company plans to drill several wells in the first three counties and a few in Johnson.

United Fuel Gets Vance Fork Acreage

United Fuel Gas Co. recently acquired leases on considerable acreage in the Vance Fork area, and this area may soon be the scene of more drilling. Rome Oil of Lexington has acreage on Vance Fork, White Oak and around Caney, some of it adjoinig the acreage picked up by United Fuel. Also Leo Range of Lexington has some acreage in that section, and all are evincing interest in exploration and production wells, it is understood on good authority.

District FB Meet Held In Morgan

The Morgan county Farm Bureau was host to a six-county meeting of Farm Bureau officials at a dinner meeting in Don's Restaurant in West Liberty Tuesday evening to discuss policy. Representatives of Farm Bureaus is Carter, Montgomery. Rowan, Elliott, Magoffin and Morgan attended, 29 in all.

A historical marker on the courthouse lawn at Sandy Hook, Elliott County seat, shows the county was named in 1869 for John M. Elliott.

Polluted air serves many purposes as well as pure air does, as, for examples, it is used as transmission of power in operating tools for ripping up newly paved streets; it makes possible the use of suction pumps; it is used to inflate tires, and it keeps our bodies from exploding.

STATEMENT BY T. M. DAVIS

In agreeing to take the position of Chairman of the Breckinridge forces in this County, I will have to admit that my reasons were purely selfish. I am always thinking of our County first, and everyone knows of the strong Morgan County ties of John Breckinridge. Morgan is second only to Fayette County in the General's heart.

I certainly hope that the voters will take a long and hard look at all the candidates and vote for those whom you think will do the most for Morgan County. Everyone knows my personal feelings on all the races. However personal feelings toward any of us in office or the party hierarchy should not influence your vote one way or the other.

Remember, Morgan County comes first.

Your friend,

T. M. DAVIS
